This is a fact that is lost on those who would re-define the word “Constitution” by claiming that due process only applies to criminals, not to people. Then, again, government wants to play dirty by claiming that to protect its citizens is to strip them of their rights. It could be argued that this is the result of the Court’s lowering of the standard of review and an unintended consequence of the “re-interpretation” of the Constitution. The cure to the problem? Stop re-interpreting it. The Supreme Court should reinstate the higher standard of review and once again recognize that the Constitution is to be the supreme law of the land, which means that the Court should continue to apply the higher standard of review and the over-reaching clause of the Fourteenth Amendment to every one of its rulings.Love & War The books that you haven’t read Hi people, despite the fact that I have said before that I do NOT want to read reviews in front of me.
